for white teachers will be held Friday and Saturday, June 21st and 22nd.

Examination for colored teachers will be held Friday and Saturday, June 21st and 22nd. Examinations will be held at the court house.

A Nine Days' Douth.

The order of Buffaloes is now a back number, says an exchange, and the Camels is the order that now occupies the front of the stage. The main thing to accomplish in the latter order is to go nine days without drinking, and it makes many applicants get a hump on themselves to do it. But it is a matter of regret that too many men drink nine days without stopping.

We're Fixed Now.

Having secured more assistance in the office, THE RECORD is better prepared to give its patrons job work of the best quality and on the shortest possible notice. With new job type, fine presses and printers who know their business, we defy any competitor to give you better work or lower prices. Put this in your pipe and smoke it.

Republican Meeting.

The Republican County Committee is hereby called to meet at the law office of Lewis L. Walker at Lancaster, Ky., on Tuesday, June 18th, 1901, at one o'clock p. m., for the purpose of determining the time, manner and place for nominating candidates for county offices. All candidates are urged and expected to be present.

Large Audiences, Much Interest.

Interest in the meetings at the Christian church is much greater this week than last, and the house is crowded to the doors at each service.
The sermons by Rev. Mr. Moore are well received and are having effect upon his hearers. The music is quite illustrated by pictures thrown upon a cavass. There have been several additions to the church. The meeting will continue next week. There are no day services this week, but they will be resumed Monday.

Ward.

After an illness of many months, Miss Lela Ward, youngest daughter of deputy sheriff William Ward, died at the family residence in this city Thursday afternoon. Although she was not confined to her bed during the entire time, yet she had been a constant sufferer for a year or more, and several times it was believed death was at hand. The patience shown by the little sufferer was something remarkable. She was a true Christian girl, and her faith in her Master was exhibited by the humble submission with which she bore the illness she knew would prove fatal within a short time. She was possessed of a gentle, kind disposition which made her a favorite with all who knew her. She leaves her father and one sister, who have much sympathy in their bereavement. Funeral services were conducted Friday and her remains laid to rest in the Lancaster Cemetery.

gies, road Wagons, &c., must go. You need our vehicles, we want your money. Conn's Carriage House.

First Assistant Teacher.

Prof. E. W. Newton Todd, of Paint Lick, has been appointed first assistant teacher at the Graded School. Prof.
Todd was born and reared in this county, and just graduated at Georgetown College with the degree of A. M.
He is a worthy young man and filed excellent recommendations.

Knows What It Takes.

Mr. Willis, the energetic proprietor of Crab Orchard Springs, certainly knows what it takes to let the people know he is in business. He gave THE RECORD the third order for announcement cards last week, which makes in all several thousand copies he has sent out.

Card of Thanks.

We take this method of thanking the dear good people of Lancaster and vicinity for their kindness and sympathy in our bereavement. What a satisfaction and how consoling it is to know that we live in the midst of such good christian people. There is in store a blessing for each and every one of them. May God's richest blessing ever be with you all is the prayer of
W. Ward and family.

Odd Fellows Decorate.

About twenty members of the local lodge of Odd Fellows went to Stanford Tuesday to participate in the celebration of graves by the lodge in that city.
At night the lodge initiated a number of candidates, the work being the best ever seen in this section of the state.
The Stanford lodge is one of the most flourishing in the South and is composed of a body of excellent men.

Two Years Old.

The Lincoln Democrat has passed its second mile stone, and we congratulate our hustling neighbor upon the successful career it has enjoyed. The paper is right up among the top notchers, and with Joe Waters and Al Warren at the helm a brilliant future is in store for it. Here's looking at you, boys.

Train Service to Cincinnati.

The Blue Grass Vestibule, the fast train on the Queen & Crescent Route, which heretofore has run daily except Sunday, will, beginning June 2nd, be operated daily, Sunday included. No change in time will be made in either direction except that it will arrive in Cincinnati at 10:15 a. m. instead 10:20 Northbound. This magnificent vestibule train carries elegant free parlor cars, and is run on fast schedules.

Base Ball.

As announced in last issue, arrangements have been made for a game of base ball between the Harrodsburg and Lancaster teams. It was to have been played last Saturday, but was postponed until tomorrow, Friday.
The game will be called at 3 o'clock.
Both teams have been considerably strengthened, and a warm number may be looked for. These teams played a game here during the tournament, when the score was 2 to 1. They now play for the championship of the High Schools of Kentucky. Admission, 25 cents, ladies and children 15c.

Have Them Removed.

The city officials should buckle on their fighting clothes and make the owners of old boxes, wagons, etc., remove the obstacles from the pavements and Public Square. Frequently one-third of the Square is taken up by wagons and machinery, while the sidewalks are covered by boxes and goods which merchants should display in their houses. If the Square and sidewalks are to be used as a display counter for merchants, another thoroughfare for pedestrians should be provided. We suppose this law is not enforced for fear someone's "feelings" might be hurt. If that "someone" would obey the law against obstructing a public highway, there would be no occasion to wound feelings.

All kind of machinery repaired at Wheat Wanted.

H. A. B. Marksbury & Son are in the market for several thousand bushels of wheat, and will pay the highest market price for same.

Now is the Time.

We are thoroughly equipped for clearing tombstones and monuments, and have been doing much of this work in and around Lancaster. We use no chemicals and clean the marble so that it looks like new. Call on us near the depot. S. McGuire.

Progressing Nicely.

Dr. J. L. McKee is meeting with great success in securing subscriptions toward building a parsonage for the Presbyterian church. As previously stated, the church has purchased a lot on Water street, a beautiful site, and the congregation is exceedingly anxious to build a house which will be an ornament to the town.

Enjoyable Affair.

The W. C. T. U. held an open session at their rooms over the National Bank Saturday, which was largely attended and greatly enjoyed. The Lancaster Union is in a flourishing condition, and the noble ladies have done much good work for the cause of temperance in the town.

Fine Music.

The music at the Christian church is said by all to be the best ever heard at a meeting in this city. It is under the personal charge of Prof. J. Walter Wilson, of Indianapolis. Prof. Wilson is an educated musician, and thoroughly understands his business. For some years he was with Charles Reign Seville, the most noted evangelist in the Christian church. At each service his solos are illustrated by pictures thrown on a cavass.

Lancaster Boys Reuten.

A team of Lancaster boys went to Stanford Saturday and were defeated in a ball game by the nine of that city.
The reason of the defeat is the fact that the Lancaster lads had heretofore played on level ground and were unable to climb the steep knobs on which the game was played. The boys say the ground over there is so hilly they were unable to see all the diamond at once.

Elks Home in Danville.

The Danville Elks have bought the property on main street, in that city, formerly occupied by Collector Yerkes, and will furnish the entire building in elaborate style. Club rooms will be fitted up, reading, bath and billiard rooms equipped and the "Home" made second to none in the state.
Sam Jones may sling his slang at the Elks, but they are the people, and no mistake. The lodge is composed of the very best business men in Danville, and one must have a gilt-edge character to cross its threshold.

Where All Pull Together.

The Lancaster business men, having shown interest in the meeting in progress at the Christian church, we publish the following clipping, which goes to show what can be accomplished when all work together for the advancement of religious matters:

Hiawatha, Kansas, is a city of about 5,000 inhabitants, where one of the greatest revivals in the history of the State was held last winter, and it is reported that one-half of the inhabitants joined the churches. Before that time, the city was conducted like any other city of the size, but since then not a drop of liquor of any kind has been sold in the city; not a dance nor a card party has been held since the meeting, and two shows have been frozen out and a magician forbidden forbidden the use of the opera house.
Every day at noon, the inhabitants gather in the public square and hold a noon prayer meeting. From all reports the people are not suffering in pursue on account of their religious work.

"Weeds by the Wall" is the title of the latest book of poetry from the facile pen of our home poet, Madison Cawein, says the Louisville Critic.
We don't know, but the supposition is Cawein has recently made a visit to Lancaster and noticed the crop of weeds on the streets and side walks.

Dr. G. Goldstein arrived on time and is located at the Garrard Hotel, where he will be pleased to consult anyone about their eyes. The Dr. has been coming here for the past twenty years and his work has proven pre-eminently satisfactory. Saturday is his last day here, so call early and have your eyes fitted with a pair of glasses that will do you good and preserve your eyes.

Guards Replaced.

The Boyle county officials have replaced guards at the toll gate on the pike between this city and Danville.
As stated last issue, this gate has been twice blown up with dynamite and once burned. The guards were taken away by order of the court and the same night the gate was blown to kingdom come, or wherever good gates go.

Lancaster Will Be In It.

Each town to be visited by the Louisville delegation, is working with might and main to make a big showing and entertain the Louisville boys a little better than the town last visited.
Well, old Lancaster generally holds her own in matters of this or any other kind, and if our welcome isn't as rousing as any they will get, it will surprise
THE RECORD.

Puttin' on Style.

Capt. Franklin J. White, of THE RECORD office, is as proud as a hen with one chicken. The editor presented him with a neat, revolving, high-back stool this week, which enables him to "stay at the case" with all ease and comfort. Mrs. Landram fixed a neat, soft cushion for the stool, and the veteran typist is now so "stuck up" he barely notices his associates in the office. Although Capt. White has been setting type for 72 years, he never sat on a stool until a few years ago.
He says, "When I see a printer flopped flat on his pants, I know at once that he's a slow coach."

A Good Word.

The Financial Review, a journal of finance, insurance and commerce, published at 132 Church street, New York, has the following to say in its last issue in regard to a Lancaster man:

The reorganization of the Commercial Club in Lancaster, Ky., which promises to be an excellent thing for mercantile interests in that growing town, has been rendered more significant of the character of the men who have been chosen officers. Mr. H. T.
Logan, the president, is a gentleman whose standing in the business world is high, will doubtless prove an able and energetic aid in placing the club's status, for he understands exactly what is needed to advance the interests of the business public. Mr. Logan's own career serves as a fair index to what he can do in the future, and as his has been one of successes, it is safe to say that his work for the organization will be as useful as those who chose him expect. This club now enlists the support of those who are really influential in the town and who are active and persistent in their efforts to do all they can for Lancaster.
Mr. Logan is illustrative of this class.

IMPORTANT MEETING.

A meeting of the Commercial Club will be held at the City Court room, this, Thursday, evening at 7:30 o'clock, which should be attended by every business man in the town and county.
If you will attend one of these meetings and learn their object, you will, if you have any county pride whatever, be awakened to the importance of joining in the procession and working for what the Club is striving to accomplish. We have the best county in the state, and there's no denying the fact, but our resources will never be brought out and used to the best advantage until all public-spirited citizens organize and make a pull altogether for the improvements and facilities we need.
Come to the meeting tonight and show, by your presence at least, that you are willing to put your shoulder to the wheel and work for the good of your town and county.

Notice.

All those indebted to Lancaster Graded School for tuition, please call on E. W. Harris and settle at once.

T. Currey, Pres't.

J. B. Kinnaird, Sec'y. j13-1f.

The Elks lodge, of Richmond, will give a swell reception some time this month. As the Elks do everything on an elaborate scale, its a safe bet this entertainment will eclipse anything ever given in Richmond.

When you see weeds growing before a house, put it down that that man has moss on his back three inches thick.
A dirty sidewalk is also an indication that he has pennyroyal in his pocket and fleas in his barn.

W. H. Harris, whose minstrel show gave a pleasing performance at the court house last winter, has decided to give another show, with an entire change of program, on the night of the 25th, at the same place.

Stenography and Typewriting.

Miss Lenna Hobbs, who recently graduated in shorthand and type writing at Midway College, has an office at the Telephone Exchange, where she is prepared to do work of this kind with neatness and dispatch. Charges are reasonable, and satisfaction guaranteed. If you have typewriting to do, take it to her.

Col. Walton Buys a Paper.

After a careful survey of the newspaper field, and the earnest solicitation of the Harrodsburg people, Col. W. P.
Walton has decided to locate in that city, and has bought the Harrodsburg Democrat. This is one of the best county offices in the state, as well as being located in a splendid field. With a man like Col. Walton at its head, the paper is certain to make a great success. There is no better newspaper man, nor a more clever citizen than Col. Walton. The people of Harrodsburg are to be congratulated upon securing him as a citizen and an editor.
He will assume control July 1st.

About the Trains.

The committee that went to Louisville last week to work on the better train service met with fair success, that is they received some encouragement from the railroad people. As previously stated, the only objection the officials found to the change was the fact that it put some twenty-five more miles on the trains. While our plan saved the company one train and crew, yet this increase in mileage, so they said, would offset this additional expense. The Lancaster "committee" then went over the schedules again and found where another passenger train could be saved on the K. C. division and at the same time give through-car service from Maysville through Paris, Lexington and Frankfort to Louisville (something the company does not now furnish) and stated the case to the officials last week. The master of transportation said, "This puts a decidedly more favorable light on the matter," and the other officials were equally as well pleased with it.
The entire proposition was rebashed and many minor details discussed. If they decide to put on this change, which we believe they will, it will require some time to make out the time tables, as it effects the running time of every train on the K. C. division and several on the K. D. There is no

Bryant, the bright little three-year-old son of A. J. Christopher and wife, died, all that loving hands could do could not save him. He had been ill for some time, but bore his suffering with patience; only a few weeks ago his aunt Kate Olson met the same death. How sweet it is to know that his little spirit has gone to dwell among the angels and to wait for his loved ones he has left behind. Weep not, dear parents, the Lord doeth all things well, for he said "Suffer little children to come unto me, and forbid them not, for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

Mrs. Walker, and Mrs. Rigney, and her two children, Walker and Frances, are the guests of Mr. James Burdick and wife. J. C. Thompson and R. L. Jennings were the guests of relatives here Sunday. Miss L. Ham and Mrs. Jene Carter, were the guests of Mrs. Mary and Florence Dunn, Sunday. Nathan Elliott is the guest of his brother, Dr. Elliott. Mrs. C. C. Becker visited her mother Mrs. Borer, Sunday. Jack Dunn, who has been quite sick is some better at this writing. Misses Claude and Nannie Arnold, visited relatives at McCreary, last week. HUBBLE.

Rev. A. R. Moore will fill the pulpit at the Christian church at 2:30 Sunday afternoon next—Sunday school one hour earlier.

John Underwood is assisting H. C. Taylor in building the addition to L. B. Underwood's home.

Despite the stormy weather the prayer meeting at the Christian church still holds its Sunday night session, which is well attended by a large number of young people.

Miss Emma Smith, who has been living with her sister, Mrs. Carson Gover, for the past two years, has gone back to Wayne county. Miss Lucy M. Givens, who has been attending school at Crawfordsville, Indiana, has returned home, where she will remain with her parents and numerous friends during vacation. Mrs. C. P. Underwood spent Monday visiting with Mrs. W. H. Underwood. B. F. Underwood, "Our Benny," spent a pleasant visit a few nights ago with his cousin, John Underwood. "Ben" was in search of a rifle to kill the numerous sparrows that so shamefully annoy the "Colonel." We know Ben can bring 'em down, and Hedgerville will be blessed with a modern Nimrod. Miss Lucelle, of Hedgerville, eldest daughter of Mack Eubanks and wife, was visiting her grandma, Mrs. Sarah Eubanks, last week. Mrs. J. D. Miller and her mother, Mrs. L. B. A Gentle Hint.

In our style of climate, with its sudden changes of temperature, rain, wind and sunshine often intermingled in a single day, it is no wonder that our children, friends and relatives are so frequently taken from us by neglected colds, half the deaths resulting directly from this cause. A bottle of Bosc's German Syrup kept about your home for immediate use will prevent serious sickness, a large doctor's bill, and perhaps death, by the use of three or four doses. For curing Consumption, Hemorrhages, Pneumonia, Severe Coughs, Croup, or any other disease of the Throat or Lungs, its success is simply wonderful, as your druggist will tell you. FARM & GARDEN.

His Eminence, the winner of the Kentucky Derby in 1901, has been sold by his owner, Mr. Frank B. VanMeter. A New York man was the purchaser and the price paid is said to be $18,000.

A naturalist says that every time a farmer shoots a hawk he throws a $50 bill into the fire, for, though the bird takes an occasional chicken, it destroys at least a thousand rats, mice and moles every year.

Clem Beachey, formerly of Cynthia, has been offered a salary of $10,000 a year for a period of three years, to go to Germany and train a stable of trotters, but he declined because he thinks the prospect in this country is too bright.

Come and see me if you want good ewes on the shares; want them on two years time, with good paper, or will take horses or mules in exchange. I have 400 2 to 5 years old Southdown and mountain. I can suit you if you want sheep. Come with your trading clothes on. J. I. Hamilton.

It is estimated that the Kansas wheat crop this year will amount to 100,000,000 bushels. This is many millions bushels more than last year's crop, which was the largest in the history of the State. The State Employment Bureau estimates that 15,000 men from other States will be needed to help harvest the crop.

Since the first of January, 1901, there have been something over 1,200 registered Herefords sold at auction in the United States. It seems hardly possible that enough buyers could find time to attend these sales and take this number of cattle at fair prices, but they seem to have done so without much trouble. The total receipts from the sales amount to about $200,000 or an average price of approximately $240 for each animal sold.

The North Carolina experiment station has discovered that the flavor of eggs is determined by the feed. After giving the hens chopped onions for two weeks the eggs become so disagreeable in flavor that they could not be used. Wheat shorts, cottonseed meal and skimmed milk increased the number of eggs laid, but the eggs had a disagreeable flavor. Cracked corn and corn dough resulted in fewer eggs, but larger ones and of better flavor.

The following ten facts should be borne in mind by tobacco growers: That tobacco must have good soil to command good prices. That poor land or poor cultivation makes short tobacco. That lugs and all kinds of defective leaves sell low. That it requires good land and good cultivation to get good size. That it requires good leaves and proper firing and handling to make fine finished tobacco. That a common crop, raised and handled in a haphazard way, never pays for raising. That a small crop of good to fine, well finished, pays much better than a large crop of common. That a large majority of countries using our tobacco want dark colors. That good sound leaves, nicely cured and of good size, always pay the planter a profit.

Sayings—B. F. Sanders & Bro. shipped a lot of lambs to Louisville Saturday but the market being so poor, they sent them on to Jersey City. They say the lamb market is just as good in Harrodsburg as it is in the Falls City. The Continental Tobacco Company has closed its house here for the summer. Mr. Stewart, the manager, tells us that he received 1,800,000 pounds of the weed, for which he paid on an average 64c, which makes about $115,000 distributed from this point. Farmers say that this has been the poorest year for the sale of lambs in several seasons. The lambs were not good because of the drouth last year and the consequent poor grazing and clover crop failure. Besides, it is said, dogs killed $5,000 worth of sheep and lambs in Boyle and Mercer counties.

A BLOW AT LABOR.

Decision by Courts of Germany Denying the Right of Workmen to Aid Strikers by Certain Methods.

An interesting decision rendered by the supreme court of Germany affecting the right of workmen to aid strikers has been reported to the state department by Consul General Guenther, at Frankfurt. The molders of an iron foundry were ordered to finish some models for which had come from a foundry where a strike was on. The 20 molders refused and quit work. They were discharged without the usual notice and their employer brought suit for damages. The court rendered judgment in his favor for 2,043 marks, holding the defendants jointly and separately liable. The decree was confirmed upon appeal to the supreme court, which held that the defendants had been guilty of breach of contract. It was held further that the law cannot expect the employer to yield to the unlawful refusal of his employees, and that the defendants acted in premeditated concert, with a malicious purpose to injure the plaintiff.

WEALTH IN FORESTS.

Philippines Have 40,000 Acres of Valuable Timber.

Larger in Extent and of Greater Value Than the Forests of India.—The Philippines Make Poor Woodmen.

In a report to the agricultural department Capt. Ahern, of the army, calls attention to the obstacles in the way of immediate success of lumbering in the Philippines. Forest roads and fire-trails are almost unknown, and present methods of lumbering are slow and expensive. The natives are not skilled workmen, and, although receiving extremely low wages, their work is found to be of no means cheap when the cost of felling and hauling timber to a shipping point is considered.

Capt. Ahern estimates the forest lands of the Philippines at 40,000 acres, which is larger in extent and greater in value than the forests of India. There are 385 species of timber producing trees and about 50 more species as yet unclassified. Included in the list are many hardwoods, capable of taking a beautiful polish, woods that resist climatic influences and the attack of white ants. Others are specially suited for sea piling or for use as railroad ties.

There are many varieties of trees producing valuable gums, oils and drugs. Rubber and gutta percha are abundant in Mindanao, while at least 17 dye woods are found in the archipelago. Coconut palms grow without care or cultivation throughout the islands. There are also many varieties of palms, bamboo, canes and rattan, which are of commercial value and will afford profitable employment to native labor.

AN AIR TORPEDO.

Invention of a Swedish Army Officer Being Developed Under Government Subsidy.

A Swedish army officer has patented an air torpedo of a construction heretofore unknown, and received a government subsidy for exploiting it, according to a communication to the state department from Consul General Guenther, at Frankfurt, Germany. According to the patent specifications, the motion of the projectile is caused exclusively by a force which is developed in the torpedo little by little from ignition of a gas generated from slowly burning material. The pressure of the gas gradually becoming stronger, propels the torpedo by the arrangement which allows the gas to escape. Once in motion, the torpedo increases its speed in accordance with the amount of gas pressure. The charge may consist of any explosive, provided the same is ignited only by shocks or blows. The initial velocity need be but slight, as the torpedo is impelled by its own force. Thus the discharge from the torpedo gun construction for a strike was on. The 20 molders refused and quit work. They were discharged without the usual notice and their employer brought suit for damages. The court rendered judgment in his favor for 2,043 marks, holding the defendants jointly and separately liable. The decree was confirmed upon appeal to the supreme court, which held that the defendants had been guilty of breach of contract. It was held further that the law cannot expect the employer to yield to the unlawful refusal of his employees, and that the defendants acted in premeditated concert, with a malicious purpose to injure the plaintiff.

A THIRTEEN CLUB.

Schoolgirls of Newark Organize to Disprove the Power of Popular Superstition.

Thirteen pretty little misses of Newark, four of whom were in the same graduating class in school, have organized a thirteen club, which will meet on the thirteenth of each month, have monthly dues of 13 cents, and give an occasional 13-cent dinner, or, as the girls say, luncheon. The new organization, of which Miss Nelly Terhune is the president, will tempt fate in every way imaginable. Superstition is to be wiped out by the members, who declare that the ghost and goblin stories told by their mothers are all "moonshine." From now on the 13 will laugh when they break a mirror, will walk under a ladder without fear and do many other things which most girls would shudder at.

How to Get a Bill Through. If the legislators can only be made to understand that the establishment of a whipping post for Chicago wife beaters will result in the creation of another public job or two, says the Chicago Times-Herald, there may be chance to have the proposed law pushed through.

Only Word He Could Safely Use. "You're wrong in calling her a new woman," asserted the man's wife. "She doesn't belong to a lot of clubs, she isn't crying for suffrage, and she doesn't want to invade man's field of labor."

"True," answered the man, "but it's the only adjective I can well use. I dare not call her an old woman, and she certainly isn't a young woman, so I use new in the comparative sense. She's not so old as some others."—Chicago Post.

BAD BLOOD, BAD COMPLEXION.

The skin is the seat of an almost endless variety of diseases. They are known by various names, but are all due to the same cause, acid and other poisons in the blood that irritate and interfere with the proper action of the skin.

To have a smooth, soft skin, free from all eruptions, the blood must be kept pure and healthy. The many preparations of arsenic and potash and the large number of face powders and lotions generally used in this class of diseases cover up for a short time, but cannot remove permanently the ugly blotches and the red, disfiguring pimples.

Stomach Vigor is the price of a beautiful complexion when such remedies are relied on.

Mr. H. T. Shobe, 2704 Lucas Avenue, St. Louis, Mo., says: "My daughter was afflicted for years with a disfiguring eruption on her face, which resisted all treatment. She was taken to two celebrated health springs, but received no benefit. Many medicines were prescribed, but without result until we decided to try S. S. S., and by the time the first bottle was finished the eruption began to disappear. A dozen bottles cured her completely and left her skin perfectly smooth. She is now seventeen years old, and not a sign of the embarrassing disease has ever returned."

S. S. S. is a positive, unfailing cure for the worst forms of skin troubles. It is the greatest of all blood purifiers, and the only one guaranteed purely vegetable.

Bad blood makes bad complexions. S. S. S. purifies and invigorates the old and makes new, rich blood that nourishes the body and keeps the skin active and healthy and in proper condition to perform its part towards carrying off the impurities from the body. If you have Eczema, Tetter, Acne, Salt Rheum, Psoriasis, or your skin is rough and pimply, send for our book on Blood and Skin Diseases and write our physicians about your case. No charge whatever for this service.

SATURDAY HIS LAST DAY.

Dr. R. Goldstein, of Louisville, will be at Lancaster, June 11, 1901, for a few days only at the New Garrard Hotel and will fit glasses to the eyes of all who need them. He has made the study of optics a specialty, and anyone in need of glasses can not do better than to give him a call. He will be found at his room at the New Garrard Hotel.

Parents of children whose eyes are in any way affected should take them to Dr. Goldstein and have them examined. Too much care can not be taken in this particular, as any neglect of the parents may lead to most serious consequences in after life. If the eyes of a child need glasses the doctor can determine it and adjust such glasses as will be most apt to preserve and increase their strength.

This gentleman has been giving satisfaction for many years, and we recommend him as worthy the patronage of the public. Those suffering with their eyes should call on him and if they don't get relief it will not cost them a cent. He can adjust to any eyes and any age.

A good glass rightly adjusted is a luxury to a person with failing sight they can not afford to do without. A glass imperfectly adjusted is worse than no glass.

MEAT FOR HOME USE.

Best Pork Comes from Hogs Weighing 200 Pounds, Fat Hogs Being Useful for Lard Only.

Hogs weighing from 200 to 250 pounds make the best pork for family use. If several hogs are slaughtered at one time, the pieces will all be of one size and will cure better. Killing hogs weighing 200 pounds and some ranging from that to 400 pounds will provide hams of several sizes and they will not all cure in the same time. Some will be too salty while others may get too little salt. I like to kill the large, fat hog for lard, and the greater part of him gets in the lard cask. I don't hesitate a minute to cut up a great deal of the lean meat of the heavy hogs for sausage. The shoulders of the large hog are trimmed as small as the joints will let me. All the scraps possible are trimmed from the hams, even the skin and fat taken from them and rendered, and they are ready for immediate use. The nice, trim, little hams are cured for lard use. Smoked mutton saddles and pork sausage make the best meat I know of. Ahead of beef.—National Stockman.

Striking Facts About Horses. At the recent meeting of the Texas Live Stock association the statement was made that there are now 3,000,000 fewer horses in the United States than there were ten years ago, that there are 1,000,000 more in active use than in 1900, and that there is a better demand for our horses from abroad than for many years, if ever before. It was brought out in the discussions that we could not by any reasonable measures restore our numbers in less than six years, and that in the meantime we would have great difficulty in supplying our foreign customers, if indeed we were sufficiently equipped to hold their trade. It was agreed that the outlook just now for the industry of horse breeding is especially promising.—National Stockman.

MAIL CARS IMPROVED.

Larger and Stronger Vehicles Constructed at Government's Request.

In response to the demands of the government larger and stronger mail cars are being put into service on the railroads, with the idea of affording greater protection to the railway postal clerks in case of wrecks, in addition to preserving the mails from destruction. S. P. Taft, superintendent of the railway mail service for the Seventh division, with headquarters in St. Louis, was in Kansas City the other day for the purpose of inspecting several of the new postal cars that are to go into service experimentally on the Santa Fe between Kansas City and La Junta, Col.

The new cars are built with the special idea of withstanding the shock of collision, having double sills of extra thickness, sheathed in steel where they are joined at the ends and for a considerable distance from these points. The cars are supplied with Pintsch lights so that they will not catch fire when an accident occurs.

STREETER AT WASHINGTON.

The Unique Chicago Character Tries to Be Sworn In as Delegate in Congress.

"Capt." Streeter, of Chicago, is determined to break into congress. He is not satisfied with the outcome of his attempt the other day to have the oath of a delegate in congress administered to him, but the other afternoon he entered the office of the chief clerk of the interior department and demanded that he be "sworn in" as a delegate in congress from the territory of Lake Michigan. He was informed that it was not the function of the interior department to administer the oath of office to a member of congress. "But," insisted Capt. Streeter, "I hold in my hand the election of the voters of the territory, which I must cast for president. The chief clerk told Capt. Streeter that he might be able to get some information by going to the capitol. He started in that direction, but before he left said: "It is true that I am the duly elected delegate for a term of four years from the new territory of Lake Michigan, east of Chicago, range 3, township 47. A territorial form of government was established four years ago. We have a territory covering 300 acres and 127 voters. Neither the general government nor the state of Michigan has any control over this territory, and we organized a civil government."

"The voters have elected me to represent them for four years, and I am here to do it. I cannot get any satisfaction in this department, but, then, I do not know much about matters here. If it were anything else I would know more about it. I am going up to the capitol to see Vice President Roosevelt."

SEA GIVES UP TREASURE.

American Professor Gets Authentic News of Remarkable Find Near Cape Malia.

Prof. William Nickerson Bates, of the chair of Greek archaeology of the university at Philadelphia, has just received from Athens the first authentic information of the finding of Greek statues under the sea off the island of Anticythera.

Prof. Bates said: "The discovery of these statues is the most important that has been made in the field of ancient Greek art in many years. The statues were found at the bottom of the sea in 200 feet of water by a party of sponge divers."

"It is supposed that a Roman ship carrying a load of art treasures from Athens to Rome during the first century A. D. foundered at this point. In fact, the anchor of the ship was recovered."

"Greek students are of the opinion that this is the identical ship mentioned by Lucian, who has recorded the loss of a number of valuable paintings and statues on a vessel that foundered at this point off Cape Malia during a great storm. The loss was regarded as a national calamity, and numerous efforts were made by the Romans to locate the wreck, but without avail."

Friends No More. "Is he a friend of yours?" "No, sir. I told my wife I had been with him the other night, when she waited up for me. LOUISVILLE TOBACCO MARKET.—The Burley market has been quite erratic this week. On Wednesday morning there was considerable speculation buying. Brokers seemed full of orders and the trust was willing they should "load up," but the trust buyers were careful to see that they paid high for what they got. This condition gave the Burley market a mild boom, but about noon the speculative orders seemed to be about completed and the trust allowed prices to sag perceptibly. Prices were then irregular, but seemed to steady up slightly toward the close of that day. On Thursday the market was still irregular, but was decidedly strong. Common grades may be quoted irregularly strong at quotations. Medium grades of red filler were strong and more steady than any other grades. These kinds, selling say from $8 to $10, were probably 10 cents to $1 higher than a week or ten days ago. Color types were in much favor and sold full up to quotations. The State has had numerous good rains during the week, and while it cannot be called a general rain, yet the showers have been so numerous that a larger part of the State has had a setting season. While it is too early yet to get specific reports, it is probable that the bulk of the crop will be in the hill by the time this paper reaches our readers.—Farmers' Home Journal.

FATE OF "COLLERAN"

Half a mile south of the German building in Jackson park lies the mining camp of the Stony Island Klondikers. It isn't a camp at all, as a matter of fact, but a loan-to-plant, ties and driftwood, built against the old breaker by a half dozen Woodlawn boys who have read of the exploits of gold seekers in the frozen regions of Alaska and desire to emulate them on the park-fringed but now desolate shores of Lake Michigan.

For four weeks the wooden building, long reaches of the gold links, the shell-strewn beaches and the wooden breakwaters have been piled with small mountains of drifted snow or strewn and incrustated with sheets and projections of hard ice. The piling north and south of the old convent of La Rabida is no longer a bulwark of gray-brown wood, but is covered with fantastic frozen spray from the storm-beaten lake. Now it looks like a long wall of carved white stone, overtopped with crystal filigree. Few pedestrians venture into that section of the park. Even on the wooded island, that haven of summer lovers, the benches are buried beneath the snow, the paths are barred by wind-tangled shrubs, the waters grown under burdens of ice and the deserted cottages look like the abandoned cabins of a Siberian waste.

The Woodlawn boys have been long intimate with the haunts and habits of the snow or more of cotton-tails that make their homes in the south end of Jackson park. The park policemen no longer stand like statues breasting the cold breezes, but sweep across the frozen landscape. They have their hands full looking after the waters on the lagoon about the Field museum, where there is a snug shelter, a blazing fire and many things "doing." So the Stony Island Klondikers and the rabbits have full sway upon the fields of ice. There is not even an audacious gopher left to threaten them with bombardment or to send them scurrying with his cry of "Cotton-tails!"

Thus far the mining operations have been confined to "washing out" shells, goodies and bits of petrified wood from the frozen diggings of the shore sands. The process is carried on with strict regard to the methods of the Yukon gold seekers, and the lads are equipped with homemade sluice boxes, sieves, picks and shovels. The prizes gained after much toil and hardship could be picked up in profusion during the warm days of spring, summer and autumn, but the boys are after adventures, and when they can't find them ready to hand they manufacture them. Great fires are built upon the ice near the shore, and when the heat has dissipated the first obstacle and thawed the underlying sand, the miners go to work taking out what they call "pay dirt." This is nothing more than shell-bearing sand, but they sift it with infinite care and labor, and then it is ready for washing.

Washing consists in dumping the contents of a sieve—pebbles, shells and other lake treasures—into a bucket of water, where the sound shells, which float, are quickly separated from the small stones and form the first "gold" of the juvenile mining operations. Driftwood picked up along the stone levees near the old convent, wreckage from dismantled buildings, weeds and park litter constitute the fuel supply, and sometimes, even after the winter sun has set, the pink glow has faded from the glaciers which surround them, the glow of the miners' fires can be seen upon the clouds which drift across the margins of that low shore.

A boy named "Skins" is the latest to join the Stony Island Klondikers. He was admitted chiefly on account of his ownership of an industrious ferret, which has long since made an enviable record as the champion rat catcher of Woodlawn. Skins' ferret is named "Colleran," a compliment to the city's chief of detectives, "Skins" father being an applicant for a place on "the force."

"We'll let him belong," suggested "Natty" McTavish, the leader of the Klondikers, to his associates, when they met in the lean-to last Saturday. "We'll let him belong because he's got a pull with 'ol' police, and if 'Colleran's' any good he kin catch rabbits for 'em' camp."

So "Skins" was initiated, and after that he tried to reciprocate by poking "Colleran" into every crevice in the park where a cotton-tail might be supposed to lurk. McTavish's dog Fido, however, has been looked upon as the best forager in the camp, for he cornered a rabbit about two weeks ago and brought it to his master in great triumph. The supper which followed was the most realistic thing that has happened since the arguments across the Stony Island avenue Chikita and began to burn holes in the ice along the beach.

But since the advent of Skins and his ferret the miners have shown a disposition to shirk work and go hunting. Instead of sitting and planning, they have been prowling around with Fido and "Colleran," trying to find rabbit holes. The dog has never appreciated the induction of the ferret, but as Skins' pocket is richer for a rabbit and a home for the little creature Fido has been obliged to tolerate his presence in the camp.

Monday evening the boys actually saw a rabbit, and with wild whoops and a flourish of clubs started in pursuit. Skins' ferret and McTavish's dog began barking at the hunting party. The rabbit seemed to vanish under an old concrete pavement near the peristyle bridge, and thither the hunters changed in hot array. "Colleran" was fitted out of Skins' pocket and thrust into the crevice, while Fido, wildly excited, leaped, barked and whined for his prey.

"You fellows scatter!" yelled Skins, taking command by virtue of his ownership of the ferret. "Take Fido over there and hold him! The rabbit's apt to come out at the other end of the hole. If he comes out here I'll catch him myself!"

The six or seven boys formed a wider circle, and Skins, with his mouth at the hole, yelled: "Go it, Colleran!" and "Lat! Lat! Lat! Colleran!"

Suddenly there was a slight commotion under the snow about ten yards from where "Colleran" had disappeared.

"Here comes the rabbit!" chorused the boys.

"Sick 'im! Sick 'im!" yelled McTavish, leading Fido to the hole like a bulldog in the snow. Fido tugged at his collar, and, refusing to be restrained, plunged headlong into the drift and began to burrow for the rabbit.

Not the rabbit, but poor "Colleran," helpless, strangled and already in his death struggles.

Skins still belongs to the Stony Island Klondikers, but he sticks to mining proper and has nothing but evil glances for Fido. McTavish gives him all his "pay dirt," and the campers are saving up to buy a new ferret.—Chicago Daily Record.

TURNED ON THE GAS.

"Oh, by the way, I would suggest," remarked the agent, when Mr. Newsplike had paid a month's rent in advance for the Mount Pleasant flat, "that you drop in at the gas office on your way up and make your deposit and have the gas turned on."

"Much obliged for mentioning that to me," replied Mr. Newsplike. "I'd sure have forgotten it if you hadn't, and we'd have been in a dicken's of a pickle over night without any gas, wouldn't we?"

Newsplike got up to the new flat about half-past four, and found Mrs. Newsplike, with her sleeves tucked up and her hair wrapped in a towel, setting things to rights.

"By the way," remarked Newsplike, seeing no signs of any dinner preparations, "anything doing in the way of food for a hungry man around this plant? Man can't live by putting up pictures alone, can he?"

"I do despair, I do despair about dinner," exclaimed Mrs. Newsplike. "Won't you just run down to the corner and get a small steak and some potatoes and a few little things—I'll give you a list. Mercy on us! I completely forgot that the poor thing is supposed to eat."

It was kind of a cheerless business, this just starting off after food for dinner, but Newsplike put on his coat and went after the stuff his wife was doing with a stub of a pencil, and came back with two arm-loads.

"Ah, now I can have a little patched-up dinner inside of an hour easily," said his wife. "Won't you please get at that barrel and unpack the fishes for me?"

Newsplike "got at the barrel," and while he was out in the kitchen stowing away the excelsior he got to looking at the gas range. It caused him to think of something. He went into where his wife was draping for the four hundred and nineteenth time the front room mantel, and inquired:

"Er—um—by the way, where's the coal range?"

"Coal range?" replied Mrs. Newsplike. "Why, there isn't any. We'll cook entirely with the gas range here! My, how old-fashioned you are! Why should there be a gas range and a coal range, too?"

"Well, you'll have to pass me on that," replied Newsplike. "But I know one time when you're not going to cook on the gas range, and that's to-night. Now, don't go off the handle and tell me I'm a pinhead—which I am—and a pinhead, which I am—" and a pinhead, which I am—more, I grieve to say I am—but I forgot to go to the gas office and make the deposit, and so there'll be no gas to-night."

"And you know I particularly told you to attend to the gas!" reproachfully said Mrs. Newsplike.

"I know it—so did the agent—so did my own inner consciousness," replied Newsplike. "Everything that was near and dear and precious to me in this life should have inspired me to go to the gas office and make my little deposit—but I didn't do it, and so what the deuce's the use of harping upon it? Forget it! I'll go down and see 'em before breakfast to-morrow morning. Meantime, I'll go out and get a lot of boiled ham and cured tongue and canned salmon and sardines and crackers and cheese and weiss beer and stuff like that, and we can make a meal out of that truck, and I'll also get some candles, and we can see to go to bed by the light of 'em, and—oh, what larks! Won't it be just too cute and larky for anything to go to bed by candle light?" and the man laughed a hoarse cackle, while his spouse regarded him mournfully.

Pretty hungry by this time, he went out and bought nearly all of the articles he had enumerated, together with a dozen of the largest-sized candles that could be bought for money, and returned to the flat. He noted, gloomily, on his way upstairs that all of the other tenants had gas, of course, and he wondered if his wife's solemn declaration that he was losing his memory were really so. However, he put an imitation cheerful face on the matter as he stumbled up the stairs and groped his way through the private hall of his new flat.

He lit one of the candles as soon as he had set down the second batch of provisions he had bought, and then he lit nearly all the rest of them, and his wife set the table as best she could under the disadvantages, and they made their first meal in the new flat. But the first meal couldn't have been called either "larky" or "cute," as Newsplike had put it, by the wildest possible stretch of the imagination.

After the meal, when Mrs. Newsplike had given Newsplike the signal that she'd like to have him leave the table in order that she might be permitted to remove the dishes, he fumbled around in his vest pocket absently, for awhile, searching for a cigar. He found one. Then, talking to his wife, and telling her what corking good fun he thought it was to eat by candle light, and to eat prepared food at that, he fumbled around for a match. Finding the match he sought, he lit it, and then, for the key of a gas fixture right in front of him, turned the key, still absently, applied the match to the gas, turned it without any trouble whatsoever—lighted the gas down low, threw the match in the fireplace, and then went on to Mrs. Newsplike:

"Yep, I think it's just the limit, once in awhile, to have to just sort of camp out without gas, and—"

Then he noticed that Mrs. Newsplike was looking at him strangely, and that from him she was looking at the turned-down gas jet, and the thing dawned upon him, and he turned the gas up, and then went and lit the gas over the flat, and then returned to where his wife was standing, grinning in a ghastly way at her, and said:

"Never touched me! I knew all the time that the gas company hadn't turned the gas off here since the other tenant left. You're lit!"

A Cup of Good Coffee

To get a really good cup of coffee you'll have to start back of the actual making; you'll have to look to the roasting and the grinding. In ARBUCKLES' you have a coffee that's scientifically roasted, and delivered to you with all the pores of the berry hermetically sealed. You're sure of a good cup of coffee because all the coffee flavor and aroma are kept intact until you want it. The fame of ARBUCKLES' induced other coffee packers to put out imitations of it. These imitations cost the grocer (and you) a cent a pound less than ARBUCKLES'. But don't be tempted to buy a package of some other coffee when you can get for it is actually less expensive than the cheap kind; goes further—besides being better flavored, more satisfying.

You will find a list of useful articles in each package of Arbuckles' Coffee. A definite part of one of these articles becomes yours when you buy the coffee. The one you select from the list will be sent you on condition that you send to our Notion Department a certain number of signatures cut from the wrappers.
